Fireworks Ban Sparks New Disputes

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Banning fireworks by local governments is tantamount to taking away a citizen's freedom to express himself, opponents argue as some communities throughout the state move to impose such laws.

What makes this action by cities doubly disturbing, these same opponents say, is that the bans are being put into effect on the eve of the nation's 200th birthday.

"The reason for the revolution of 1776 was to declare our freedoms and to make our own determinations on how to conduct our lives," Leo W. Crawford, of Red Devil Fireworks, one of the nation's largest distributors, said.

Crawford made his remarks following action to abolish fireworks sales in Pacifica last March.

The council passed the new law effective July 4, 1975 — several months after voting the law in.

They stalled the effective date, according to Mayor Stan Farber, to avoid creating financial hardships for those organizations who use revenues from fireworks sales to help charitable causes.

There is presently a petition being circulated through the Coastside city opposing the council's decision and asking that the matter be put on the November ballot. This would allow the public to decide the future of fireworks in Pacifica.

"People should have the right to determine what they want or don't want for their families. That's what our country is supposed to be all about," John Cruikshank, one of the principals in the petition, said.

Farber said he has "never read in any history books about fireworks being used to celebrate (the Fourth of July)."

Crawford, a disabled World War II veteran who has been connected with so-called safe and sane type fireworks for more than ten years, asks: "What was it Francis Scott Key saw when he wrote our National Anthem?

"Fireworks attempt to recreate the scene that Key saw while imprisoned on board a British ship that was shelling Ft. Sumter," Crawford believes.

Some citizens feel that a home fireworks display, properly supervised, allows children to actively participate in the celebrations.

"Those professional aerial displays put on by a pyrotechnics experts — such as the one we stage annually for Disneyland — are great. But families want to participate, albeit to a lesser degree," Crawford said.

Farber said Pacifica will continue to have a public fireworks display on July 3, instead of the Fourth of July.

The Pacifica council did not reach its fireworks abolishment decision unanimously.

Councilwoman Grace McCarthy said she voted against the measure because "I felt it would be impossible to police unless all cities in the area ban fireworks."

"I am a great advocate of fireworks," she said, "and I love parades and Christmas trees too."

But stern critics of the fireworks ban, such as Crawford, predict that Christmas trees may be next on the growing list of "things Big Brother doesn't want us to have."

Fire Studies Bid Fails

Daly City Councilman William Schumacher's bid to require 60 college units in Fire Science studies before anyone can take the exam for fire training officer failed to win support from his fellow councilmen Monday.

In a 3-1 vote (Anthony Giamonna is on vacation), the council moved to accept the Personnel Commission's findings that a minimum of 18 credits in the fire sciences is all that is needed to try for the new post.

Schumacher argued that the city's police must have 60 units before they can take the Civil Service examination.

And the job of fire training officer should be the same, especially in the light of the annual salary it pays — some $19,000.

Councilman McRobert Stewart, a longtime supporter of the city's firemen, said "It sounds like we're going to hire some stupid person to train our firemen."

This isn't true, Stewart said, pointing out "these (18 units) are only minimum requirements."

Stewart also said he would "hate to see people working in our fire department for 15-20 years and be left out (because they do not have 60 units of college)."

After being assured the examination for the post would be open to all people and include both a written and oral examination, Councilman Paul Hupf voted to support the Personnel Commission.

Mayor Victor Kyriakis asked if there were any firefighters who could meet the 60 units of fire science studies.

"No," Assistant City Manager Ray Letsinger said.

The present fire training officer — filled by a regular fire officer — has 30 college units in the fire sciences, while 17 firefighters have 60 college units in general education.

VICTIM OF JAWS

Center in North to Be Studied

A San Mateo County service center for the North County will receive "serious consideration", in a study soon to be conducted by the county, the North San Mateo County Council of Cities was told recently.

George T. Riley, executive assistant to County Mgr. M. D. Tarshes, said the county will use outside consultants to draft a plan concerning capitol improvements throughout the county.

Some officials at the Daly City meeting complained about the lack of county services in the north.

It was pointed out by these officials that north county residents pay considerable taxes to the county, but receive "very little in the way of services," according to South San Francisco Councilman Warren Steinkamp.

Daly City presently has mental health, probation and welfare offices scattered around the city.

It would be less costly if these and other county services were housed under one roof, Daly City officials noted.

The supervisors are "sensitive to the needs" of a north county jail holding facility, Supervisor Bill Royer said.

He said he hopes the study will show the facility is needed.

On the subject of obtaining another Superior Court judge for the north county, the cities were told the present Superior Court in South San Francisco is operating below capacity.

The reason South San Francisco Superior Court is not at capacity, Royer was informed, is that there are no jury trials held there. That eliminates quite a few cases, Daly City Councilman Bill Schumacher said.

"There could be more case loads in South San Francisco — it's up to the presiding judge," Schumacher said.

Broadmoor Recall Issue: McCloskey Files Rebuttal

Broadmoor Police Commissioner John F. McCloskey Jr., the subject of a property owners' recall, today denied charges lodged against him concerning his conduct while in office.

The recall petition was filed in Redwood City against McCloskey July 24 and was signed by the recall committee made up of Charles Phillips, Jerry Biagini, Beverly McMillan, Gilbert Fontana and Victor Muzzetti.

Petitioners seeking the recall allege McCloskey has refused to support a popular vote determination concerning the district's annexation to Daly City; emphasized Daly City interests above those of Broadmoor residents; held "secret" meetings with Daly City concerning annexation of Broadmoor; and, supported Vince Murphy as a commissioner knowing he "represented interests favoring annexation to Daly City."

In all, there were six charges dealing with McCloskey's alleged misconduct concerning the annexation filed by the recall group.

McCloskey Thursday categorically denied each of the charges.

"I am very much in favor of a popular vote on the issue of annexation. However, I have neither seen nor heard of such a proposal," McCloskey told The Times.

"The citizens of this community should, in fact, demand such a vote," he said.

McCloskey said in a prepared statement, that the Broadmoor Property Owners Association "has surpassed the true facts which I feel a citizen has the right to know."

These "true facts," according to McCloskey, include the payment of attorney Wayne McFadden with property owners' money to help draft the recall petition.

McFadden has denied the charge, explaining he had advised the recall group as a separate client.

BPOA president Will Thomas, who resigned his post as head of the group Thursday night along with Director Dennis Prator in the wake of mounting turmoil over the recall, also denied BPOA funds had been used to pay McFadden.

"As news editor of a newspaper which covers the area," Thomas said, "my involvement might raise questions in the future about the objectivity and fairness of our news coverage."

Meanwhile, two members of the Original Recall Committee, Beverly E. McMillan and Gerald J. Biagini, denied today that any Broadmoor Property Owners Association funds were used to pay for attorney fees in the recall attempt against Police Commissioner McCloskey.

"There was no member of the Board of Directors of the BPOA on our committee (and) we have neither received nor have been promised PBOA funds for this purpose," a statement issued by the recall committee said.

'He Spit Me Out'

Shark Bites DC Man

A Daly City man who had a run-in with a great white shark off the Northern California coast Saturday feels he is lucky to be alive and talking about it today.

Gilbert Brown, 34, a self-employed iron worker living at 70 Lausanne St., Daly City, told The Times from his hospital bed at San Francisco's Presbyterian Hospital this morning that the huge shark ripped him "only once."

"There was a pod of seals nearby and he apparently mistook me for one of them," Brown said. "After he decided I wasn't a seal, he spit me out."

Brown has been skin diving for the past 10 years.

Saturday, he was diving for abalone off the Humboldt County coast in about 18 feet of water when the shark suddenly grabbed him by the arm.

With his free arm he began striking the shark under the chin with an abalone iron, used to pry shellfish off rocks under water.

"I hit (the shark) under the chin a couple of times and he released me," Brown said.

If Brown had not been an experienced skin diver, things might have turned out better for the shark.

Once before, Brown saw a great white shark while skin diving. Nothing happened on that occasion.

According to Brown, on the latest occasion, he found himself staring into a set of jaws that "had to be 18 inches across."

Things happened so fast that Brown's memory is still a bit hazy on how long he battled the shark.

"It was probably only a few seconds, but it seemed a lot longer," he said.

A few yards away, Brown's three companions began hurrying to the scene after the shark victim began yelling for help.

They took him into their boat and immediately sought medical help for Brown, who was suffering from severe lacerations of the hand and in shock.

Brown expects to be released from the hospital within a week.

But doctors may have to perform more surgery on his injured hand before he can regain full use of it, he said.

Brown, who has been considering abalone fishing as a fulltime trade, said he hasn't changed his mind about skin diving.

Did he see the smash box office movie, "Jaws," or read the best-selling book about a killer shark lurking in the waters off the East Coast?

"No. I haven't seen that movie . . . I think it's a bunch of nonsense," he answered.

Pollution Bill Gains

An Assembly-passed bill creating an agency to deal with air and water pollution in San Mateo and eight other counties in the Bay Area had advanced to the Senate.

The measure AB265 by Assemblyman John Knox, D-Richmond, was approved Monday night by the Local Government Committee on a 7-0 vote and sent to the Revenue and Taxation Committee.

The bill would repeal all district planning laws and set up a single agency to implement the provisions of the Federal Clean Air Act and the Federal Pollution Control Act.

Knox said he removed from the bill a requirement that the Bay Conservation and Development Commission (BCDC) be immediately consolidated into the new agency. His amendment now provides for a study of the future role of BCDC with a report to be made to the 1979 legislature.

Knox said the amendment satisfies the objections of BCDC officials and The Save San Francisco Bay Association.

The lawmaker also removed a provision establishing an independent "regional executive" for the proposed agency and added a provision requiring selection of a "chairman" from among the members of the agency board.

Loans Outlined in Trial

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Paul Axelrod, an unindicted co-conspirator in the fraud trial of former State Senator Richard Dolwig and six others, told Monday how he lost his wife, children, home and car because of alleged dealings with the defendants.

Axelrod has been accused of being one of two contact persons between developers looking for loans and Eurovest, a Grand Cayman-based company purportedly interes ted in equity participation in mainland U.S. companies.

The defense at Monday's trial claimed Axelrod came out ahead in several business ventures.

He admitted borrowing some $50,000 from three developers and never paying them back.

One of the persons lending Axelrod money was Encino developer Byron Lasky, "someone I've known since 1973," Axelrod said.

According to Axelrod, Lasky was looking for a new joint-venture partner on the West Coast and Axelrod suggested Eurovest.

Lasky has been exploring the possibility of participating with the City of Brisbane in a multi-million dollar waterfront development off Sierra Point.

Whether the Eurovest loan was earmarked for this project could not be determined.

Lasky needed a $4 million letter of credit and was prepared to make a cash advance of $120,000 as security for the loan, Axelrod testified.

Dolwig was appointed escrow agent for these cash advances, according to testimony from witnesses.

Axelrod said he borrowed $10,000 from Lasky, but to date has not paid Lasky back.

Dr. Bernard Glass, head of Bay Development, Inc., of San Diego was steered toward Eurovest by Axelrod after a loan was turned down from an England-based financial institution, the court was told.

Glass and Axelrod flew directly from

Coast Plan Cost Query is Urged

The Coastal Zone Conservation Plan could become a financial bombshell for California taxpayers.

That fact and the details of a legislature resolution seeking cost analysis of the plan by the end of the year were revealed Friday night in Pacifica.

The County Coalition of Concerned Citizens met there with the Board of Supervisors and Assemblyman Dixon Arnett of Redwood City to review Arnett's proposed Assembly Concurrent Resolution 99.

The coastal plan, the result of Prop. 20 in 1972, is expected to be considered by legislators next year. It is intended to preserve thousands of miles the state's coast for open space and to outline potential uses of other coastal land.

Arnett, however, said the state legislature could face the plan in 1976 with no specific information on the financial impact.

The possibility . . . horrifies me," Arnett said. Many legislators from non-coastal areas are unfamiliar with the plan, he said, and have no background with which to work.

Arnett, who opposed Prop. 20, said one study was done by an independent group but was not reviewed or reviewed or verified by any public agency.

"The kinds of figures they came up with were astronomical," Arnett said.

The cost of land acquisition alone for parks, open space, access, right of way and other needs is in excess of $3 billion, he said.

Arnett's resolution directs Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post to determine:

—money needed to complete the planning process and the anticipated source of that money.

—funds required for administrating the plan by state and local governments.

—total cost of land acquisition.

—costs for acquisition of development rights.

—reimbursement costs to local agencies for state mandated activities.

—impacts on school district and local government tax bases.

—effects of restructuring tax laws.

—costs for restoring and developing coastal resources under the plan.

—the economic impact on the state.

Post, Arnett said, agrees with the resolution and has said he is willing to make it a high priority in his office if the legislature accepts the resolution. The cost analysis must be prepre by Dec. 1, according to the resolution.

The legislature will receive the coastal plan Jan. 1. Arnett said he expects "one whale of a battle" in the legislature after the plan is introduced.

The California Water Project is the only state undertaking which Arnett said he believes comes close to the financial impact of the coastal plan.

"The resolution is intended to alarm the legislature there is a magnitude of dollars involved in making this decision," he said. "Up to this point, the magnitude of dollars has not even been addressed."

The resolution has not been set for hearing in the Resources and Land Use Committee.

Fireworks

Francisco apartment house was blamed for the death of four persons.

Movements have been underway by some fire officials to ban all Christmas trees that have not been certified to have been treated with a fire retardent, it was learned.

Statistics compiled by the State disclose that one in every 1,555 fires is blamed on Christmas trees. There were 270,000 fires in the state in 1974.

The figures, based on certain assumptions which the report did not specify and officials refused to elaborate on, indicate that almost 2,000 fires (438 dwellings) were the result of Christmas trees in 1974.

Fires caused by fireworks – legal and illegal – throughout the state amounted to slightly less than 2,000 fires in 1974, "not even enough to affect a communities fire ratings," Crawford said.

Pacifica Fire Chief Cal Hinton voices many of the objections to fireworks that other county fire chiefs have – that they cause injury and start fires.

"I knew this law would be controversial when I suggested it," Hinton said.

Asked why, if fireworks, including the safe and sane variety, were safety hazards and a danger to the public, did the council wait to enact legislation until after July 4, Hinton parroted Farber's explanation.

"Many (charity) organizations had predicated their annual budget on the sale of fireworks. We did not ban them right away because the council was subject . . . to pressure from constituents. We were trying to be reasonable."

According to Pacifica Fire Inspector Tom Elliott, this year the city experienced 14 fire calls (grass, smoke investigation, car fires) between June 11-14.

This number jumped to 30 calls between June 25 and July 7, the so-called "week of the Fourth of July," including six youths caught with illegal firecrackers and 12 children apprehended carrying matches.

Fair Breaks Record

Good weather and a good show are credited with a new all-time attendance record at this year's San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta, which closed Saturday night, at the San Mateo fairgrounds after its annual 13-day run.

The turnstile count was 192,489, a 41 per cent increase over the 136,460 of last year, according to county fair and convention bureau figures.

Spokesman Jim Cox said also that the first weekend and perhaps this last Saturday broke single-day attendance records.

Entertainers in the Fiesta Bowl and the attractions in the exhibition halls seemed to draw the best this year, Cox said, with Bobby and Cissy, the Lawrence Welk Show television dance team, packing the Fiesta Bowl for four weekend performances.

More and better displays and the general economic state probably brought the crowds, Cox said. "People just aren't traveling as much and for $1.50 admission this is an entertainment bargain families can afford," Cox said.

Smog Alert

An anticipated smog alert for the Bay Area was canceled Saturday as fresh ocean breezes swept through the area.

Clean air was evident through most of the Bay Area Saturday with light air pollution reported in the San Jose and Fremont areas.

Air pollution became significant in San Jose and Fremont on Sunday, but other Bay Area locations reported clean air which is expected to prevail today and Tuesday.

Recall

detective, said this morning. "I resigned because I feel there is a possible future conflict of interest on my part.

"I feel that if this recall action keeps going against the Broadmoor police commissioners the way it has been going, it could involve the property owners association to a point where they will take a stand. I don't feel that I could condone that type of action. Being a policeman would make me biased and therefore I would have a conflict of interest. I have to work with these people (the Broadmoor Police Dept.) in my job and when and if I have to take a stand in this matter, I feel it would be a conflict of interest."

The BPOA board of directors also issued a statement following a special meeting of that group Thursday night.

The four-part statement, rebutted McCloskey's charges concerning the BPOA role in the recall.

"The BPOA board did not initiate the intent to recall Mr. McCloskey. The recall movement was planned and launched by a group of homeowners, independent of the BPOA board," the statement read.

"No member of the BPOA board has been involved in the planning or has been working with the individuals pressing for Mr. McCloskey's recall."

McCloskey also denied he had held any "secret meetings" with Daly City.

A report in The Times first disclosed such meetings were underway in Daly City between officials of both communities last month.

The "true facts" in the annexation have been suppressed, McCloskey said.

"I feel a citizen has the right to know that his taxes will double under a proposal offered by the Association. I and the other two police commissioners, have opposed this," McCloskey said.

The Broadmoor Police District has three elected officers – McCloskey, Murphy and Lou Mantis.

Folowing publication of McCloskey's rebuttal, the five-member recall committee made up of Charles Phillips, Jerry Biagini, Beverly McMillan, Gilbert Fontana and Victor Muzzetti, have 30 days to obtain signatures on their petition from 10 per cent of the districts voters.

England to the Miami home of David Kaplan, identified by prosecution witnesses as the top man in Eurovest.

For a cash advance of $300,000, Kaplan told Glass he would secure a letter of credit for $9.5 million, Axelrod said.

The loan was needed to build a complex on Desert Inn Road in Las Vegas, according to Axelrod.

The check was "no good" and Kaplan was asked to hold it until Glass called and gave him clearance to deposit it, however, "(Kaplan) endorsed it and tried to deposit it," Axelrod explained.

Axelrod borrowed $20,000 from Glass. He has never paid him back, Axelrod acknowledged.

Another $20,000 was borrowed from M. Paul Heck of Piedmont, after Axelrod said he signed a $50,000 promissory note.

"I needed the money to buy my home," Axelrod said.

In a three month period, Axelrod said, he introduced several "deals" to Kaplan, but had never heard of any letters of credit being issued by Eurovest.

Accompanied by James (Jimmy the Weasel) Fratiano, he met with Dolwig, David Gorwitz, Kaplan, Hugh Duval (supposedly the president of Eurovest) and M. Paul Heck at Kaplan's Miami home last year, Axelrod said.

On one occasion, Axelrod said, he became suspicious of the operation and asked former business associate Gorwitz if Eurovest was on the up and up.

"He told me Eurovest has $341 million in securities to invest right now, and after this party (at Kaplan's home) it would be up to $500 million," Axelrod testified.

Representatives of the "133 Corporation" of Reno, Nev., needed a $6 million loan, but refused to put up an advance cash fee of $180,000 with Dolwig, Axelrod said.

Morey Mirkin, head of Budget Rent-a-Car in Beverly Hills, also needed $6 million to develop a rental agency in Southern California, but hesitated to put up the cash.

Taxi, Party-Goers Figure in Arrests

A San Bruno man was apprehended in Burlingame soon after a South San Francisco taxicab driver reported he had been assaulted and his vehicle stolen.

Booked Saturday night into the County Jail in Redwood City on armed robbery and stolen car charges was Harold Joseph Nagelmaker, 21, of 32 Scott St., San Bruno.

The victim, Kenneth Simon, 43, of South San Francisco, told San Bruno police he had picked up a fare at 350 Alta Mesa, South San Francisco, and was told to drive to Fifth Avenue in San Bruno.

When they arrived, police said, Simon turned around to collect his $4 fare. Instead, the passenger held an object in a sock, according to the report, and Simon, struck twice on the head, jumped from the cab and sought help at a nearby residence.

Officer Paul Esposito responded. Roadblocks were set up by police, who broadcast a description of the car and its occupant to other area authorities.

The car was spotted by Burlingame police officer R. Fogelman at 9:11 p.m., some five minutes after the broadcast from San Bruno police.

The driver was identified as Nagelmaker, police said.

And in South San Francisco, a 19-year-old man was arrested Sunday on a charge of felonious assault on a police officer.

Taken into custody after a foot chase was Shawn Yasko, 425 Dellbrook Ave., according to South San Francisco police.

The authorities said a complaint of a noisy party in an apartment at 600 Commercial Ave. led to the incident.

Defers Land Hearing

The court hearing involving an attempt to prevent the County Board of Education from purchasing property near Pescadero for a 174-acre outdoor education facility was continued today until next Monday.

Presiding Superior Court Judge Robert D. Miller granted the continuance so that Gerard Wagstaffe, retained by the Board of Supervisors late Friday to intervene in the suit, can review prior pleadings and file necessary documents.

Over the protests of Deputy Dist. Atty. Lee Port, representing the Board of Education, Judge Miller extended his order preventing the district from purchasing the property until he rules on the suit's issues.

Miss Port, while noting that the board does not intend taking an action for some time, said that Judge Miller's restraining order "shouldn't have been issued in the first place."

But the judge said he saw no harm in extending it for a week.

SSF Crime Below State Levels

By JANET PARKER

Compared to national suburban averages, South San Francisco has maintained a low incidence of local crime, according to a report released this week.

The analysis of police performance released by Chief James Datzman, also reveals the South City crime rate is lower than the statewide average of metropolitan areas studied.

This, according to the report, has been accomplished "in spite of the fact this department employs less personnel than the national average, the national suburban city average or the average for cities in the western United States."

South San Francisco police personnel staffing has remained at 85 for three years, Datzman said.

Datzman said he delayed the annual police report in order to evaluate more closely South San Francisco's status in relation to similar communities in the Bay Area.

The report revealed South San Francisco had the lowest incidence of reported crime among seven Bay Area cities of comparable size, and was substantially below the state average. Offenses reported totalled 2,286 per 100,000 population while the state average was 3,835 per 100,000 population.

Arrests, according to the report, were 3,592 every 100,000 population compared to a state average of 7,095.

Datzman attributed the low crime incidence to what he called "a law-enforcement philsophy based on aggressive efforts to reduce the incidence of crime in our community."

He referred to patrolmen stopping, getting out of their car, talking to people and making field interrogation reports.

"Who knows what a potential burglar looks like," Datzman said. "People tend to be offended if a policeman stops them on the street but it's all part of what the policeman's job is about."

He said the "high patrol profile" — officers being highly visible on the streets — has had good results.

The report also revealed South San Francisco has 1.7 police personnel for every 1,000 population. The national average is 2.4 and for cities 25,000-50,000 it's 1.9.

South San Francisco has approximately 50,000 persons.

Based on national trends, Datzman said he expects greater increase in suburban crime spilling over from metropolitan areas. South San Francisco, he said, most likely will be affected by this.

The large industrial sector, he said, also affects the city's crime.

The police chief described two particular police department needs of the future — community service technicians and regional police radio system.

"If we are going to continue to keep a lid on the increase in crime and still supply service people want in the suburban community, different police law enforcement styles will be needed," Datzman said.

The community service technician, he said, could free sworn officers to spend more time with "what police ought to be doing." The technician would handle non-hazardous police activities such as marking, checking and storing abandoned vehicles, making house vacation checks, assisting motorists, directing traffic and taking non-hazardous reports that still merit checking.

The most progressive of these programs is in Fremont, he said.

The regional radio system, he said, would allow policemen of different jurisdictions to directly communicate. Presently, inter-city police calls are handled through the Redwood City police radio. Since cities purchased their radio equipment at different times from different vendors, direct contact is impossible he said.

"Our present system is not too modern and efficient," Datzman said.

The report also showed South San Francisco police wages are consistent with national suburban averages. Retirement costs are below national average.

Judge Frank Blum Set High Standards

Superior Court Judge Frank B. Blum, who retired from the bench last week, has given outstanding service to San Mateo County in this capacity since his appointment in September 1957 by former Governor Goodwin Knight.

Tough-minded and scrupulously fair, Judge Blum has carried out his duties with compassion that has earned him the respect and admiration of his professional colleagues as well as the public. In almost 18 years on the Superior Court bench he has demonstrated by his deeds that an independent and honorable judiciary is indeed indispensable to justice in our society.

Prior to his appointment as a Superior Court judge, Blum was city attorney of Daly City for eight years. He has long emphasized the importance of parents accepting and carrying out their responsibilities in raising their children. Much of juvenile delinquency, he believes, can be traced to poor family guidance.

Judge Blum has served with distinction during one of the longest tenures in the Superior Court's history. The high standards of conduct that he has exemplified have contributed substantially to the integrity and independence of the judiciary in this county and the state. We join his many friends and admirers in wishing him well in the years ahead.

Job Titles Changed in Daly City

Ditto "building maintenance man."

He has been replaced by "building maintenance worker."

In all, 16 job titles have been changed in Daly City because the Fair Employment Practices Commission determined tham to be "institutionally discriminatory."

"Changing these titles must have been exhausting work for those people," Councilperson McRobert Stewart commented at Monday's study session of the City Council.

All titles containing the word "man" in their descriptions — for example: "Fireman" — were determined to be "objectionable" to the FEPC and changed by the city's Personnel Commission.

From now on a person seeking employment cannot be discriminated against because of his (her?) religious creed, race, age, color, national origin, ancestry, physical handicap or sex.

SSF Consolidation Move Opposed

A proposal to integrate several South San Francisco divisions into a single Department of Community Services was met with opposition at the City Council meeting Wednesday.

The council delayed the reorganization proposal, criticizing administration for not formally reviewing the plan with the library board members.

The proposal by City Manager Ed Alario would incorporate the departments of parks, common greens, recreation, marina, library, and information and referral center into a Department of Community Services.

Alario said the proposal is intended as a trial basis of six months or a year.

"If it's not accomplishing things we think it will, we can go back to the original concept," Alario told the council.

The city manager said in his report the reorganization would provide "a more effective, cohesive and administratively sound structure."

The only cost to the city would be $1,100 to elevate the library department to a division head.

Alario stressed the library function would not be changed.

"People will not be aware they are dealing with a division or a department. The public still will be talking to the same people," Alario said.

However, councilmen expressed mixed reaction, the audience vocally disapproved, and the library director emphatically denounced the proposal.

Councilmen objected to the manner in which the proposal was presented to the four library board members. Alario said he brought the members into his office two at a time because there wasn't time to call a special board meeting.

Although the library board sent a letter, dated July 24, expressing "complete agreement" with the proposal, it became evident the library board wasn't sure of its stand at all.

Library Director William Alverez said board members had time to reconsider after they met informally with Alarios, and at least two members were now against the proposal.

Alveres said the plan would "definitely downgrade the library."

"Whenever you take a department and make it a division, you've downgraded it. It's not as strong and it doesn't have the stature it had before," Alverez said.

"I've learned when you've got something going good, leave it alone," Alverez said.

The library department has received only $3,000 increase for purchasing material since 1967. In addition, it has undergone a drop in both a drop in both full time and part-time staff.

"That department has operated damn well," said Councilman Terri Mirri. "Why tinker with it?"

Councilman Leo Padreddii said the general concensus in the city is against the proposal.

He said the $1,100 salary raise to Alveres would be "a present" and it's in opposition to the council's efforts to keep city costs down.

Mayor Richard Battaglia said the public will not be aware of the changes the reorganization would cause.

"The public will receive the same level of service," he said.

It was a former library board member, Edna deLarious, who asked that the decision to implement the proposal be delayed.

"The library is an educational institution," she said. "It's not a recreational institution. It's a major part of the city."

She said she has heard rumors of further library cutbacks, including closure of the Grand Avenue library.

"A move like this may make it easier to accomplish this over the heads of the library board," she said.

County Raps JUHSD Reserve Fund

Jefferson Union High School District trustees unanimously approved an $18,850,940 budget Tuesday night, but were taken to task by the San Mateo County Board of Education, which called the district's reserve account "rather restrictive."

In a letter to District Supt. Floyd Gonella, Board of Education business services director Stanley Olson stated, "We do not propose any changes to your 1975-76 budget as now submitted, but rather wish to express our concern over the inadequacy of the appropriation for contingencies.

"The present appropriation of $156,313 appears rather restrictive, when one considers a total general fund budget in excess of $14,000,000," Olson stated.

Olson told Gonella there was no set percentage of the general fund which should be appropriated for contingencies, but Olson suggested reserves should be 3 or 4 per cent of the budget. "Reserves of lesser amounts could cause disastrous financial problems . . . ," Olson said.

Gonella called the district budget a "delicately balanced instrument" and told trustees, "We have refined the budget to a point of concern. We have little flexibility in developing an education plan."

Gonella said that in developing the budget both he and Dr. Robert Watt, associate superintendent for business, strived to maintain the current district staff and programs. In so doing, Gonella said, the district had only $156,313 left over for reserves.

Trustee John Sloane told Gonella, "I would expect you to closely scrutinize the budget so that you can warn us if we are getting into a difficult situation and we can then make cuts."

Gonella assured Sloane, "Our system of monitoring the budget will change drastically."

In other matters, Certificated Employes Counsel Louis Silverman told trustees salary negotiations with teachers "are not progressing very satisfactorily."

Silverman reminded trustees the CEC, representing all the teachers in the district, had presented 13 proposals to the district. He said the CEC has received "one counter offer, one agreement and 11 denials."

"The CEC finds nothing here with which to negotiate," Silverman said. "We ask the board to review the (teacher) package and come back to the teachers with an adequate response."

Silverman said the CEC has asked for a 10 per cent salary increase. He said the district has countered with a "zero per cent" salary increase.

Salary negotiations have been held since July 1.

New Housing Element

A housing element for the Bay Area's Regional Plan will be considered for approval by the executive board of the Association of Bay Area Governments at its meeting this month.

A public discussion of the proposed housing element will be conducted during the Aug. 21 meeting which begins at 7:30 p.m.

Approval of the plan element would constitute a clear commitment by ABAG

The proposed regional housing policies address these issues:

- The growing number of the region's households who cannot afford adequate homes.
- The impact of local growth control measures on the existing housing stock and on new development patterns.
- Inequities caused by discrimination in the housing market.
- The inadequacy of available financial and institutional resources to meet the region's housing needs.

GIRL SCOUTING

DALY CITY Girl Scouts will overnight this evening, as part of the two-week day camp program directed by Carole Ann Scott and themed The British Isles. Brownie Girl Scouts will have the opportunity to attend as many hours as their older sisters, for the first time.

Also this week, units will present a special program for parents, displaying the culture and cuisine of their area country. Brownies have studied The Hebrides, islands off the Scottish coast, and juniors have investigated England, Northern Ireland and Wales.

Cadettes Scouts explored the culture of Scotland and Aides in Training were led by Mrs. Mary Ann Dale. A small pixie unit consisted of a child care service for the all volunteer adult staff.

Mrs. Scott's assistant camp director is Joan Stewart, program director is Barbara Ruggiero and business manager is Shirley Figone.

SCOUT AMERICA '76 planning committee will meet Friday noon-2 p.m. in Breuner's Community Room to prepare for the April 3 and 4 celebration of Girl Scouting scheduled for the Serramonte Shopping Center Mall.

Fall troop distribution of applications for booth announcements will lead the agenda according to general chairman Alvin L. (Al) Schwarzbach.

"Scoutlook" stories, troop information forms, liaison projects between the nine cities involved, and Bicentenial tie-ins will be discussed. Scout America '76 has been accepted by the National ARBA calendar for promotional listing.

JUNIOR Troop 2855, Daly City, reports that they have visited City Hall and the police department, according to troop leaders Sue Freitas and Annette Chiappari.

LUAU PLANNED
Plans are underway for a luau at the Westlake Community Center Oct. 4 for Mary's Help Hospital Guild. An Hawaiian entree will be served with a fashion show following. Master of Ceremonies will be KNBR disc jockey Carter B. Smith. Trying a few of the Hawaiian fashions are (from left) Mary Short, Virginia Stanghellini, Helen Corbett and Fran Gaffigan. Proceeds will benefit the guild pledge of $300,000 for the hospital expansion program.

B'nai Israel Temple Sets Weekend Service

Sabbath Services will be observed at Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, Friday at 8:30 p.m.

Services will be conducted by Rabbi Ira Book and Cantor Jacob Graudenz will chant the liturgy. Services Erev Shabbat with Oneg Shabbat (Social Hour) following.

High Holiday seating is available through the synagogue office by telephoning from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. 756-5430.

Selichot (Prayers of Pardon) will take place Aug. 30 at 11 p.m.

The annual memorial service of the congregation will be held, Aug. 31, 11 a.m. at Eternal Home Cemetary.

On Shabbat morning, Saturday at 10 a.m. services will be held.

Beth Israel Service Set

Rabbi Herbert Morris and Cantor Henry Greenberg will officate at Congregation Beth Israel — Judea in Daly City during the High Holy Day Services.

Harry Bathgate, Georgia Prugh, Mildred Simon and Charles M. Stone members of the professional choir will sing.

Dr. W. Leonard Beck will be the organist.

Serramonte Open for Labor Day

For the first time in its seven year history, Serramonte Center will be open for business on Labor Day.

Nearly all retail stores and some service stores will remain open from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Sept. 1.

The three major department stores, Macy's, Montgomery Ward and Mervyn's, will observe the special Labor Day hours.

To promote business on the holiday, all stores will participate in a special three-day "Back-to-School Shopping Celebration" which will start Aug. 30, and end at the close of the business day Sept. 1, 6 p.m.

IT'S YOUR MONEY

Q. I worked for the railroad for 9 years before I quit and took a job that's covered by social security. I've held that job for 30 years and soon I'll be retiring. Will I get both railroad retirement annuity and social security benefits?

A. Since you worked for the railroad for less than 10 years, you will not be eligible for a railroad retirement annuity. Your work for the railroad will be combined with your work under social security to figure your social security benefits.

Magic Show Set

A genie, the magic lamp, Aladdin and his palace will come to life on the mall in the performance of the fairytale.

This new show combines live performers, puppets, animated characters and the art of illusion.

Starring in the 20-minute presentation is a magician who tries his hand at the genie's own tricks. In the appropriate setting of Aladdin's Palace, he will baffle young and old with feats of magic.

The show is for children and their parents. There is no admission charge.

They are scheduled for 1, 2:30, 4 and 7 p.m. Thursday and Friday; 11:30 a.m., 1, 2:30 and 4 p.m. Saturday; and 12:30, 1:30, 3 and 4 p.m. Sunday.

Serramonte Center is located on Highway 280 at Serramonte Boulevard in Daly City.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

SOFT MOLASSES COOKIES

- 3½ cups sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon cloves
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ cup margarine
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup dark full-flavored molasses
- ½ cup sour condensed milk
- 1 cup AllBran cereal

Sift three times the three and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons baking soda, fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg and half teaspoon cloves.

Cream the half cup margarine with the half cup sugar. Beat in the three eggs and one cup molasses and continue beating until light and fluffy. Stir in the half cup sour condensed milk and add the sifted dry ingredients gradually, mixing well. Fold in the cup of cereal.

Drop by rounded tablespoonfulls two inches apart on greased cookie sheet. Bake in 400-degree oven about 12 minutes or until done. Makes 4 dozen large cookies.

NOTE: Sour the condensed milk by placing one and one-half teaspoons white vinegar in a cup, pour enough condensed milk to make the half cup. Allow to stand at room temperature while you go with the mixing and fixing.

SINCE WE are baking cookies, let's continue with these delightfully rich cookies that I featured a few years ago. They are so good they deserve an encore.

HELLO DOLLIES

- ¼ cup butter
- 1 cup fine graham wafer crumbs
- 1 cup coconut, shredded or flaked variety
- 1 cup chocolate chips
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 can sweetened condensed milk

Place the fourth cup butter in a 9x9-inch baking pan and melt, spread over bottom and sides.

Layer in the rest of the ingredients in the order given — Do not stir. Spread the one cup graham crumbs over the butter, then the coconut, chocolate chips and walnuts. Then spoon the canned sweetened condensed milk over all.

Bake in 325-degree oven approximately 30 minutes. Allow to cool and cut into squares.

An 'Afternoon of Music' Planned by MH Guild

September 1 is the deadline for reservations to "An Afternoon of Music," sponsored by the Mary's Help Hospital Guild.

Phyllis Ryan will be the guest artist who will perform for the benefit of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild's Scholarship Fund, according to Mrs. Virginia Stanghellini, the guild's president.

Annually the guild donates $500 for an education assistance scholarship. Funds from the scholarship account are available to members of the guild and members of their families as well as to hospital employees and their families. To qualify for assistance, the applicants must be enrolled in school and pursuing a career in a medical field.

Mrs. Ryan will present her concert Sept. 14, at 3:30 p.m., 3368 Jackson St., San Francisco.

Persons wishing to attend as asked donate $2.50 each. Requests for reservations, accompanied by donations, must reach Mrs. Frank Gaffigan, 1544 Victoria Way, Pacifica, 94044, prior to Sept. 1.

MEMBERS OF the Delta Gamma Alumnae Chapter located in this area will begin their annual Christmas Card sale on Sept. 2, according to Mrs. Paul Davis of Novato, this year's sale chairman.

In 1975 the chapter donated $375 to the Camp Fire Girls, Golden Gate Council, so that five visually handicapped girls were able to attend camp for one week.

Peninsula residents who wish to assist with the chapter's benevolence program may purchase Christmas cards or note paper selected from albums comparable to those in leading department stores.

Members of the chapter will open their homes to persons wishing to select their cards. Homes which will be serving the North Peninsula area are those of Mrs. Earl Conrad, Mrs. Joseph Diestel and Mrs. Bruce Denebeim.

Mrs. Conrad will have the cards in her home, 66 Santa Paula Avenue, San Francisco, Sept. 19 - 21. Mrs. Diestel, 45 Melba Ave., San Francisco, will have the books on Oct. 17-19 and Mrs. Denebeim will have them at 135 San Leandro Way, Oct. 20-23.

For details call Mrs. Davis in Novato, 897-3729.

LOCAL FRIENDS of Patti Parks McClain will be pleased to know that she has succeeded in establishing a new Florence Crittenton Services Auxiliary near her new home in Moraga. Mrs. McClain was president of the North Peninsula Circle for the Crittenton Home before leaving this area and she is hoping that many of her local friends and circle members will be on hand to help new unit make a smashing success of its first fund raiser.

The new chapter, the Calico Auxiliary, will hold "The Century Collection," with prizes, shop tours, wine tasting and a gourmet box lunch on Sept. 22 at the Moraga Cookhouse.

Tickets, at $7 each may be reserved by calling 376-6513 or 937-9438.

LAST WEEK'S ceremonies commemorating the opening of the Golden Gate by Lt. Juan Manuel de Ayala in the frigate San Carlos were of more than the usual significance to one of Westlake's residents.

Mrs. John Madrosen, who attended the observances, is a member of the family directly responsible for drawing attention to the events of Aug. 5, 1775.

Her uncle, the late Charles Latt Fisher of Sunnyvale, was an enthusiastic amateur historian who specialized in the history of this area, to which his family came five generations ago.

Fisher's investigations of the history of San Francisco led him to the information about Lt. Ayala and his voyage from San Blas, Mexico to Monterey Bay and then northward. Ayala was charged with the task of locating and surveying the "great arm of the sea" which Gaspar Portola and his expedition had sighted from a hilltop near modern day San Jose in 1769.

Somehow, his voyage and Bay survey had escaped the attention of historians and Ayala's entry into the bay and the subsequent Plano del Puerto de San Francisco which he prepared had never been commemorated in any way.

Fisher felt that this was a grave oversight and he set about rectifying the situation. He wrote to the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, providing them with all the information about Ayala that he had garnered from aged papers and documents.

Many people heard of Ayala for the very first time from the mention of the voyage made by the supervisors, but Fisher did not feel this was enough recognition for such an important event and he wrote to the State Legislature asking that Aug. 5, the 200th anniversary of the entry of the San Carlos into the bay be declared an official day of recognition for Lt. Ayala and his ship. The resolution was passed and a copy of it reached Fisher just two weeks prior to his sudden death.

In keeping with the spirit of the twin Bicentennial, several events were staged honoring Ayala. On Sept. 5, there was a special Mass at Mission Dolores Basilica followed by the dedication of a Kiosk at the newly named Lt. Juan Manuel de Ayala Vista Point, (formerly "Vista Point" at the north end of the Golden Gate bridge), and a boat parade on the bay. On Tuesday there was a civic luncheon at the Fort Mason Officers' Club attended by Fisher's relatives, as well as Mayor Joseph Alioto, Dr. Donald C. Cutter of the Spanish Naval Museum and Jaime Alba, the ambassador of Spain. The dedication of a California Historical landmark plaque at Aquatic Park concluded the day and the commemorative events.

There Is a House . .

There is a house on Lombard Street in San Francisco, in the block that is known as the crookedest street in the world, where fires started mysteriously. Where unseen dogs barked at night and music broke forth to interrupt dinner parties and afternoon naps. This was the house where Pat Montandon lived during the late 1960s.

Her experiences as a resident of that strange house makes her book "The Intruders" a candidate for the hair-raising book of 1975. As she relates when one bizarre incident followed another, Miss Montandon passed through a mortal struggle that nearly drove her out of her mind. Even trips to Mexico and New York did not relieve her misery. Indeed, only the friendship of her secretary, Mary Lou, kept Pat on an even keel. Then Mary Lou died in that strange house — or was she murdered?

Charming Pat Montandon is a San Francisco radio and TV personality. She is known far and wide for the parties she gives and for the long list of friends who attend her. It is surprising, therefore, to learn from the "Intruders" that she could be upset by an angry tarot reader or the pronouncements of a fortune-teller. Yet, why not; for two years she was the victim of strange circumstances. Among them was the suicide of her niece, the fits that plagued her gentlemen friends, the nervous breakdowns of her pets and finally the horrible death of her best friend.

Miss Montandon's story is unbelievable, yet true. It is told in fascinating terms that make the hair rise on your head. "The Intruders" reads like a novel, but every librarian and book seller in the country will place it with the biographies. After 286 pages it ends as it starts, in a mystery.

Do ghosts really live? Can curses be placed upon houses and have effect upon the residents? Are some houses truly destined to ruin the lives of all who reside in them? Miss Montandon's book joins a long list that makes you wonder.

PREPARING FOR THE FAIR

Members of the Friends of the Daly City Library book fair committee have taken time from vacation schedules to process used books, records and sheet music for the Fall Book Fair. Mrs. Denise Schwarzbach, chairwoman, and Mrs. Virginia Tierney, assistant and publicity, take inventory while pricing and assorting books. Donations are needed including "how-to" books, foreign language books, children's literature, home study textbooks, dictionaries and encyclopedia sets.

Health Center Strike Averted

By JANET PARKER

A special negotiating session slated for yesterday at least temporarily has averted a threatened Guadalupe Health Center employes' strike.

Charles Smith, health center board chairman, met with union representatives early Wednesday and scheduled the 7 p.m. session for negotiating parties.

Union leaders had said they would strike at 12:01 a.m., Monday if the board would not schedule a meeting to resolve the concerns of Hospital and Institutional Workers' Union 250.

The health center employes have been working without a contract since June 30.

The 46 employes originally sought a 15 per cent across the board pay raise with improvements in health and welfare benefits.

However, the union dropped its request to 12 per cent in June.

In a press conference Thursday, Maria Chase, union shop steward, released a statement condemning management's alleged refusal to deal with union requests.

"The union has met with management since February with no response from management on any issues regarding money," the statement said.

The union representatives also said management refused to sign a statement supporting a search for additional funding.

The proposed statement would commit management to "submit and request supplementary funding from HEW in order to meet the mutually agreed upon economic items stemming from the negotiations."

The union statement also said management "refused to call a meeting of the board of directors to ratify the statement."

Wray Jacobs, union business representative, said additional funding must be secured if staff is to maintain employment. Funding is available, he said, from the state government and other government programs.

The health center received $521,000 from HEW for 1975-76. This was a decrease from the $606,000 funding of 1974-75. Additional revenue includes Daly City revenue sharing.

The union also claimed the center will lose 18 employes due to the HEW funding cutback.

Acting director Shelly Fernandez, however, said that claim was incorrect. At the last negotiating session, she said, union representatives were told the budget will balance so as not to force the job layoffs.

She also said the proposed statement will be considered by the board at their Aug. 20 meeting and that management could not act without board approval.

Smith said Guadalupe has had its share of problems in the past year causing the delay in negotiations. The center has had two permanent and five interim directors in eight months.

"This would suggest some uncertainty, instability and lack of some coordinated follow-through the union has been made aware of this," he said.

Jacobs agreed that internal problems and lack of continuity have affected progress in negotiations.

Help Wanted

The following agencies have requested volunteer assistance from the Volunteer Bureau Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County.

PENINSULA HUMANE SOCIETY — People who can give at least one-half day per week are wanted to take a five-week training course. Purpose of the course is to instruct the volunteers to give classroom demonstrations or to become adoption specialists to help people choose the right pet. Training will begin on the morning of Sept. 3.

EASTER SEAL SOCIETY — Driver to transport clients to the workshop. A car is provided.

DAY CAMP FOR THE HANDICAPPED — Volunteers for the second session of this camp for multi-handicapped children. Aides work the entire camp day, but need not work every day of the camp session which will run from Aug. 18 through 29. Activities include arts and crafts, nature hikes, cookouts and swimming.

PARENTAL STRESS HOTLINE — This prevention program on child abuse will have a training session in the middle of this month. Potential volunteers must attend 20 hours of training and make a one year commitment. The hotline, which will begin in September, will offer the opportunity for parents under stress to contact trained people.

FRIENDLY VISITING — Residents of the San Mateo area are needed to visit elderly persons on a one-to-one basis. Visitees are either in their own homes or in convelescent hospitals.

VOLUNTEER BUREAU — Typists to help prepare labels and envelopes for the newsletter and a mailing campaign. Both electric and manual typewriters are available.

SCHOOL COMMUNITY SERVICE — Students in the San Mateo Union High School District may register for the summer School Community Service volunteer positions in camps, working with handicapped, and aiding non-profit agencies. Registration can be made with a School/Community Service coordinator as well as with the Volunteer Bureau in Burlingame.

Additional information about these and other opportunities may be obtained by contacting the Volunteer Bureau, 119 Primrose Road, Burlingame. The bureau is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

A branch office in Redwood City is located at Ampex Building 2, 940 Douglas Road, and is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The Bureau is a project of the Assistance League of San Mateo County and shares in the United Way of the Bay Area.

ACS Planning Phone Survey

A telephone questionnaire survey will be conducted the next few weeks by the San Mateo County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Mrs. Pearle Armstrong, education director for the local unit, is in charge of the project which is part of a pilot program designed to determine what the adult public does for cancer prevention and detection.

For the study, 120 ACS centers have been chosen throughout the state. Telephone numbers were derived by a careful sampling technique utilizing telephone directories in the area as well as unlisted numbers.

San Mateo County residents who will receive calls include those living in Pacifica, Redwood City, La Honda, South San Francisco, Millbrae, San Mateo, Woodside, San Carlos, Belmont and Half Moon Bay.

The survey is designed to be completed in approximately 10 minutes, and the results will be made available to the public when completed.

Volunteers have been trained specifically for the survey, and the interviewers will include the following: Mesdames Samuel Brown, Menlo Park; Milton Gordon, Woodside; Dennis Hession, San Mateo; Eugene Nelson, Clifford Brauff, Richard Amadio, and William Kelly, all of San Carlos; J. A. Geissinger, San Mateo; and Ralph Shook, San Bruno.

More information may be obtained from Mrs. Armstrong or Marian Speier at the ACS office, 1163 Chess Drive, Suite A, Foster City.

Vital English Program

A class for new Red Cross Vital English instructors will be held Tuesday, 1-3 p.m. at the Sequoia Red Cross office 3540 Middlefield Road in Menlo Park.

The Red Cross Vital English program matches volunteer teachers with Spanish-speaking residents on a one-to-one basis to share in learning how to communicate in the English speaking community in which they live.

The training is open to volunteer Vital English teachers throughout the county. For further information, call Red Cross Vital English Coordinators Mrs. William Shanks 366-3851, or Henry Hustedt, 343-4561.

ACTUAL SHOPPING TEST

In an actual shopping test Mrs. Lechuga helped us prove that Lucky reduces food costs . . . using her own shopping list, she purchased items of her own choosing at Lucky . . . and then purchased the same or comparable items at another supermarket in the area. When the amounts were added up, the savings proved that Lucky prices are low prices . . . compare, you owe yourself the change to everyday savings!

She reduced her food costs 10% by shopping Lucky!

Cycle Tour Ending Here

The Great American Bike Tour which will end at 1 p.m., Aug. 14 at Tanforan Shopping Center was planned with the co-operation of Bikecentennial '76; American Youth Hostels, Inc.; and Optimists International.

Bikecentennial '76, a non-profit corporation, was founded to develop a well-marked, rural trans-America bicycle route for next year's Bicenteunial.

This summer a series of warm-up tours are planned, taking cyclists along the Lewis and Clark Trail in Oregon and then cross-country to the James River in Virginia. All Bike-centennial routes will, however, be substantially different than The Great American Bike Tour route, from New York to the San Francisco Bay Area.

J.C. Penney Co. and the Celanese Fibers Marketing Co., sponsors of the bike tour, consulted on trip accommodations with American Youth Hostels, which has been conducting a variety of cycling, hiking and camping tours all over the country since 1934.

Sponsors point out historically, that bicycling in America wasn't always a 10-speed dream like The Great American Bike Tour.

The path toward todays sleek and efficient bicycles was paved with obstacles — including design of early bikes themselves.

A Century ago, the Penny Farthing — the highwheel or "ordinary" bike — was introduced in England. The front wheel of this model was five feet high, and falling on one's head while riding this bike became the rule rather than the exception.

But stoicism prevailed, and in 1876 Col. Albert A. Pope of Massachusetts began importing the Penny Farthings into the U.S. Later, he began manufacturing them in this country. Within 15 years the U.S. had 400 bike manufacturers, and the average bike was selling for $150 — the equivalent to purchasing a bike for $1,200 today.

But a segment of the public resisted bicycling, and in 1879 the New York City Board of Commissioners actually banned the bicycle in Central Park on the grounds that it was "an eyesore and a menace to the citizenry."

But bike enthusiasts drove on. Back in 1884, for example, Thomas Stevens rode a high-wheel or "ordinary" bike from Oakland to Boston, which was all right as far as it went. On the other hand, poor Stevens was required to carry and drag his 75-pound bike through creeks and over mountains. It took him exactly 103-½ huffing-and-puffing days to make the trip.

A YEAR LATER, J.E. Starley introduced what he called the "safety" bike — a chain-driven bicycle with 30-inch wheels and hard rubber tires. By 1888, the year that Dr. Dunlop invented pneumatic tires for his son's tricycle, the Central Park ban was rescinded and the governor ruled that bicycles could have access to all public roadways . . . but this triumph came only after an eight-year court battle initiated by the League of American Wheelmen.

During the Gay Nineties, while the League's membership had soared to 102,000, the U.S. Army was investigating possible use of its own for the bicycle. Before long, troops were drilling on bikes, a rapid-fire machine gun was mounted on the handlerbars of a tricycle, and a "mountain cannon" was mounted between two bikes bolted together.

Bike sales grew rapidly during the first half of this century, leveling off at about two million annually by 1947. In 1954, Richard Berg rode from Santa Monica to New York City in just over 14 days, including one day when his bike endured 13 flats from cactus thorns.

INTEREST in cycling increased again in the 1960's and during that decade the number of bikes owned in the U.S. had more than doubled to 50 million. Sales hit a record 15.3 million in 1973 and at the end of 1974, the third consecutive year that bikes outsold cars, there were an estimated 80 million in the U.S.

Fish, Game Commission Wins Award

The Western Association of State Game and Fish Commissioners, at its annual conference in Seattle, Washington, presented its "Commission of the Year Award" to the California Fish and Game Commission.

Accepting the award on behalf of the commission was Commissioner Berger C. Benson of San Mateo.

The Western Association of State Game and Fish Commissioners is comprised of members from Alaska, Alberta, Arizona, British Columbia, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming.

Each year the Association's Awards Committee reviews accomplishments of the various commissions and individuals nominated for special recognition. Awards are then made in four categories: Commission of the Year, Professional of the Year, Honorary Member and Special Awards.

In making the presentation, Awards Chairman Jack R. Grieb of Colorado, noted that among the California Commission's accomplishments during the past year were its establishment of several ecological reserves, its firearms legislative stand, its sponsorship of trophy award and photography award programs, and its call for an awakening of a new hunting ethic.

BOOKS

"World Book Encyclopedia." (Field Enterprises, Chicago, $279)

As a parent you may have relearned grammar, studied up on revisionist history and even mastered the new math in order to help the kids with their homework. Now what are you going to do about the metric system?

For those who throw in their slide rules when it comes to the exotic world of meters and kilometers, the World Book Encyclopedia boasts it is coming to the rescue as the first major encyclopedia to provide readers with metric as well as more familiar measurements throughout the new edition of its 22 volume set, as well as a revised article on the metric system.

In order to meet the changing needs of students from elementary through high school World Book is updated annually and undergoes major revision every third year so that it can be used to complement classroom study.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Romano's on Bright Lights 16 Years

Enrico Romano, the Italian food connoisseur of Pacifica, spreads his "pizza dough" around pretty good. He's been seen in many restaurants saying hello to buddies and talking shop. Enrico has been one of "Bright Lights" steady advertisers for 16 years. We've enjoyed many a trip to Nevada together, and to watch him try to out-Keno the casinos is a joy. He's a great gent! Drive over to the Rockaway Beach area and try his excellent Italian food. You can even order a pizza to go . . . Scotty Campbell's is an award-winning restaurant for its hospitality as well as its cuisine. If a short wait for a table is necessary because we overlooked making a reservation on a busy night, an interesting time filler is taking in the artifacts and antiques which are on display everywhere. . . . Richard D. Zanuck, producer of the hit movie "Jaws," hosted a dinner party for San Francisco friends in the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery . . . Nick Gust, the "Silver Fox of the restaurant business (he owns Nick's, Captain Charles, and The Moonraker at Rockaway Beach), is also an expert on the golf links and is invited to all the major tournaments, including the Nevada circuit. . . . Luncheon tip: A huge New York steak sandwich is served mid-day at the Bayhill Lounge, San Bruno. Luncheon includes a generous serving of French fries. And the tab is only $2.95 . . . The buffet lunch featured Monday through Friday in the Golden Rooster at Rodeway Inn, South San Francisco, is a great mid-day enticement. Roast Baron of Beef au jous is the featured attraction, with baked beans, numerous salads and fresh bread. The Lingerie Fashion Show is now a Wednesday and Thursday feature. Live entertainment six nights a week (Monday through Saturday) . . . In a city famous for its great seafood restaurants, Lehr's Greenhouse enjoys a well-deserved reputation for serving some of San Francisco's best seafood dishes. Regular patrons say their fresh petrale sole is the "finest served anywhere," and for a real taste treat, you owe it to yourself to try the shrimp creole New Orleans . . . Seafood fanciers are guaranteed taste satisfaction when ordering Seafood Newberg, one of the $3.95 Early Evening Specials available this week at The Shirt Tail in Palo Alto. Soup or salad, dessert and beverage are included . . . Vince Licata, popular San Mateo restaurateur, is once again off to Nevada to enhance his bankroll and to visit a few of the many restaurants that are popping up almost as fast as the jackpots. Meanwhile, back on the home restaurant scene: Sons Tony and Louis are in charge of the cash registers at both Vince's Seafood and Italian restaurant and the nextdoor Fish Depot . . . When planning a Nevada vacation (or any vacation, for that matter), contact Kay at Nevada Tours. She'll fill you in on all the package details for occasions of all kinds. You'll not only be pleasure pleased, you'll be money ahead.

No Vote on Outdoor School Until Oct. 21

There will be no decision by the County Board of Education concerning acquisitionof a site for a proposed new outdoor education facility until after Oct. 21, County Schools Superintendent Dr. J. Russell Kent said Wednesday night.

Kent made the statement as the board met to adopt the 1975-76 County Schools budget of $15,280,429 by a 5 to 2 vote, turning down recommendations to eliminate or reduce the capital improvement fund and not levy a tax for that purpose this year.

Kent reported that Oct. 21 is the date set by the State Water Quality Control Board for a hearing on the suitability of the 174-acre site adjacent to County Memorial Park at Loma Mar as the location for an outdoor education facility.

Furthermore, Kent said, it will be "some time" before formal lease proposals are received from the San Francisco YMCA and the Boy Scouts of America for the location of the outdoor education facility at their respective sites — the YMCA Jones Gulch Camp and the Cutter Scout Reservation near Big Basin.

"No decisions are to be made tonight regarding the outdoor education program except for outlay for capital improvements," Kent stated.

Larry Armstrong, executive director of the Governmental Research Council of San Mateo County, appeared before the board to urge that it delete the $805,000 amount slated for the capital improvement fund and amounting to 2.3 cents per $100 of assessed valuation on the tax rate.

Armstrong noted that there presently is $1,050,000 accumulated in the fund which is sufficient to meet capital improvement needs and leave a contingency reserve.

Trustee J. Paul Bradley proposed that the capital outlay budget be reduced by $327,265 so that it would be necessary to levy only a 1-cent tax rate for that purpose.

"There still is no decision on what direction we're going to go in outdoor education," he stated. "This will leave flexibility."

The 2.3-cent tax levy will bring in $578,428 to the capital improvement fund, as compared to $251,163 if the 1-cent rate were levied.

Trustee Carol Slavick expressed concern over Bradley's proposal, stating she wanted to see sufficient funding to cover all prospects.

Trustee Harold E. Purpus said he didn't want to see a reduction in the capital improvement income and then have to levy the legal maximum of 5 cents on the tax rate next year.

Bradley insisted that there is adequate money in the fund to meet any needs that occur during 1975-76.

"We're not working ourselves into any hardship," he maintained.

"You would be reducing it, Paul," asserted Purpus. "I can see no reason for doing that. I don't know our position on outdoor education. Until we decide, we should keep our resources available. If you decide we want to go ahead we would have to rebuild the reserve."

Howard Oliphant, president of the Governmental Research Council, accusing the board of maintaining a "low profile" as elected officials, urged it to react favorably to Bradley's proposal.

Any other action, he said, would set a bad example in view of the monetary problems being faced by school districts throughout the county.

Bradley's proposal went down to defeat by a 4 to 3 vote, with Trustees Jose Bernal and Elio Fontana supporting Bradley.

Bradley and Fontana voted against adoption of the new budget, which is up by some $2.5 million over last year.

The new budget will entail a tax rate of 28.01 cents, as compared to 30.72 cents last year.

Armstrong reminded the board that although the tax rate is dropping by 8.8 per cent, the assessed valuation has increased by 15.75 per cent.

South Tahoe Nugget For "All You Can Eat"

Have received many raves on the food served at South Tahoe Nugget, a friendly club in Stateline, Nevada. A glance at the menu prices is reason enough why this club is sought out by countless seekers of fun and games. Located just a short drive up the street from the bustling downtown area, South Tahoe Nugget has everything to offer in "Entertainment the Nevada Way." . . . Homemade chili will be Dave Jazinsky's special offer at Fling's Drive In (San Mateo and Burlingame locations) this weekend. Dave prepares all the chili himself. Cups of chili will be 30 cents and chili dogs will be 35 cents this Friday, Saturday and Sunday (Aug. 15, 16 & 17) . . . The Wednesday night $1.49 dinner specials at Tanforan Park's Garden Restaurants have really caught on. They're available every Wednesday evening from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m., which has become one of the busiest times in the restaurant complex. Don't forget to deposit your entry for the $300 worth of school clothes on Wednesday, too. The drawing is scheduled for Sept. 3.

$30.9 Million CC Budget Set

The trustees of the San Mateo Community College District Wednesday approved a $30.9 million budget for 1975-76.

It is expected that a tax rate of just over 71 cents per $100 of assessed valuation will be needed to fund the budget. That represents a decrease of almost 1½ cents from the previous fiscal year.

The trustees also approved a 5.1 per cent salary increase for their middle and lower level administrators.

Their top administrators, termed executives by the district's chancellor, received slightly less than the 5.1 per cent boost. Their raises, also approved Wednesday, came to about 4.4 per cent.

Here are the new salaries for five of the district's six top administrators:

- Chancellor Glenn Smith, $45,000.
- Director of Planning Clifford Denny, 34,400.
- Director of Fiscal Services Irene Bluth, $27,400.
- College of San Mateo President David Mertes, $37,500.
- Skyline College President John Petersen, $36,750.

The new president of Canada College, William Wenrich, was hired last week at a salary of $35,250.

In addition, at Wednesday's board meeting, the trustees also extended Smith's contract until June 30, 1979.

During the public hearing on the budget, Patrick Manning, a Canada instructor and a spokesman for the district's American Federation of Teachers local, said his own preliminary examination of the budget showed that about 15 per cent of the district's operating costs could be found in administration.

Manning said, in his opinion, such a high percentage indicated a misplaced priority. As an idea for the board to mull, Manning suggested that the trustees might consider placing a freeze on the salaries of administrators over, perhaps, a ten-year period until teachers and administrators were receiving equal pay.

Sister City Plans Surprise SSF Council

Something intended to be a surprise for South San Francisco residents caused some debate at the City Council meeting Wednesday night.

In an exchange between Councilman Terri Mirri and Mayor Richard Battaglia, residents and city officials learned the bicentennial committee is seeking "sister city" status with the City of Philadelphia.

Mirri is co-chairman of that committee.

The two officials engaged in a lively debate when Battaglia said the committee is not keeping the council informed.

"The council should be advised of plans ahead of time," Battaglia said. He said he resented hearing of a roller skating party planned by the committee after it occurred. And he objected to a communication by the San Mateo County Convention and Visitors Bureau disclosing South San Francisco's intentions to seek the sister city.

The sister-city issue never was brought to the council, he said.

Mirri objected to the mayor's criticism.

"I've never worked so hard on any committee in the six years I've been in government," he said.

"If you want us to come to you with every item, we can't do it," Mirri said. The committee is self-supporting, he said, and has asked for no city money.

He said the sister-city issue did not come before council, because the committee did not "want to build the expectations of the people of South San Francisco."

A more likely choice, he said, will be San Francisco. However, South San Francisco's own City Hall, a replica of Philadelphia's Independence Hall, may attract the interest of the larger city.

When in Boston for the recent U.S. Mayors Conference, Mirri said, he made several contracts on the road to seeking the sister city.

A portfolio of bicentennial activities is available at City Hall, Mirri said.

Roberta Teglia, committee co-chairwoman, said the council has failed to take action on the first project it presented to the council July 21 — intended salvation of a 1916 fire engine.

Each council member, she said, personally has been handed a list of intended bicentennial activities.

"We are paying our own way. We have not asked for a single penny from the city," she said.

Battaglia said he's not questioning time put into the project.

"All I'm asking is that we be advised of what is going on," the mayor said. He requested copies of committee minutes but Mirri said no minutes are kept.

In other business, the council:

- Approved use of the city's Hillside Recreation Center by the city's Information and Referral Service.
- Heard a request from resident Debbie Carson that a smoking section be designated in the council meeting room of West Orange Avenue Library.
- Heard a suggestion from Mario Cutrufelli that the city form a Convention and Visitors Bureau to attract San Francisco Airport customers to spend their money in the city.
- Appointed Frank Bertucelli, former councilman and mayor, to the city's planning commission.

PUC to Examine Report on Northgate

The state Public Utilities Commission has taken under submission a staff report concerning operations of Northgate Transit Co. in the North County at a meeting in San Francisco this week.

A 46-page report was handed over to the PUC by its staff with several recommendations concerning Northgate's reorganization — from an individual bus owner-operated system to a corporate system — and for bringing its buses up to accepted safety standards.

It was learned attorneys for the cities of Daly City and South San Francisco, PUC and Northgate earlier had agreed to the contents and stipulations of the report.

City Atty. Albert Polonsky of Daly City asked the PUC to hold any company that may operate in Daly City to the requirements set forth in the report.

He said the city did not care who operated in the city as long as the stipulations of the PUC report were followed.

"We want to see all conditions of the report followed, regardless of what company operates in Daly City," Polonsky said.

No one from the public appeared at the hearing.

Attorneys were Lionel Wilson (PUC), Granville Harper (Northgate Transit), John Noonan (South San Francisco) and Polonsky.

New Budget Adopted By JESD Trustees

A budget of $12,326,102 — up $394,603 from the last fiscal year's expenditures — was approved by Jefferson Elementary School District trustees in Daly City Wednesday night.

The budget also is up $790,160 from the tentative budget of $11,535,942 in July.

Trustees were told that the increases came through the addition of the Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) and summer school program figures into the budget.

The budget still will increase. The cost of maintaining and servicing an elaborate electronic security system for school facilities — perhaps as high as $25,000, according to business manager John Lynch — still must be determined.

In other business, the trustees:

• Agreed to send to The Daly City Community For Children Services a "letter of intent" to make available for lease two spaces at Washington School for a child day-care center. Official action was tabled until student population is determined at the beginning of the new term in early September.

• Approved leasing of the abandoned Vista Grande School to the county schools' superintendent for use as a special facility for handicapped children.

• Approved a student teaching agreement with San Francisco State University.

• Referred to insurance carriers a claim for $35,000 against the district on behalf of Donna Dal Colletto, who alleges she was struck by a young motorcyclist on a vacant lot owned by the district behind the St. Francis Shopping Center.

• Referred to insurance carriers a claim on behalf of John Yanez-Pastor, allegedly beaten on the campus of Benjamin Franklin Intermediate School.

• Accepted the resignations of Franklin D. Roosevelt School Principal Chuck Wilbur, for family health reasons; and Jim Benevides, Colma Intermediate School physical education teacher, who has accepted a vice-principal's job with a Marysville high school.

Applications Ready for Congress Fellowship

Congressman Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo has announced applications for the 1976-77 White House Fellowship program are available.

According to Ryan, 14 to 20 highly motivated, young Americans between the ages of 23 and 35 will be selected to serve as special assistants to Cabinet secretaries and to participate in an extensive education program that includes 150 to 200 seminar meetings with governmental and private sector leaders.

"This program," said Ryan, "insures the Federal government of an infusion of youthful vitality and fresh new ideas and approaches. After a year in Washington, these individuals return to their former careers with a thorough understanding and working knowledge of the process of government at the highest executive level."

More information on this program can be obtained by calling or writing Congressman Ryan's District Office, 181 Second Avenue, Suite 400, San Mateo, CA 94401, telephone 348-1973.

Chamber Executives To Meet in County

California Chamber of Commerce executives, during sessions in San Diego, selected San Mateo County as the site for its 1977 annual conference.

Les Riddell, manager of the Redwood City chamber and ast president of CACCE, will be host chairman.

It will mark the first time the conference has been conducted in the county, and it will involve some 200 statewide chamber executives and their wives.

Sessions will be punctuated by a golf tournament, a county-wide tour and special activities for the ladies. The Villa Hotel, San Mateo, was named the headquarters hotel.

ADDITION TO SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO

Now under construction at 499 Point San Bruno Boulevard, in the Cabot, Cabot & Forbes Office-Industrial Park in San Francisco, is a 72,000 square-foot inventory building. The building will face San Francisco Bay and provide an unobstructed water view from the mezzanine offices, a spokesman for the developer said. Aberthaw Construction Co. is building it, using tilt-up concrete, gun-slot windows and exterior vertical panels. Located on a landscaped 3.3-acre site, the building will have seven dock-high truck doors front and rear, parking for 68 cars, and will be served by a spur of the Southern Pacific.

Bench Bill Advances

The bill to increase Uan Mateo County's superior court bench from 13 to 15 judges was passed out of the Senate Judiciary Committee Tuesday afternoon.

The bill, authored by Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, now advances to the Senate Finance Committee. The assembly has already passed it.

Local observers are not worried about the Senate passing the measure, but about Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. signing it.

J. Paul Peoples, county court administrator, has said that an analysis of the superior court workload indicates that an equivalent of 17 judicial positions is needed, Arnett said.

NEW DIRECTOR

Michael P. Leone has been named meat department director at Quality Foods, Inc., in Colma. He replaces Romey Paulucci who retired. Leone has an extensive background in purchasing, supervising and merchandising including two decades in chain, supermarket fresh meat and poultry operations.

School Trustee in San Bruno Resigns

San Bruno Park School District Trustee Leonard Sarkon has resigned from the school board.

Sarkon told fellow trustees last week he had moved from his Kent Court San Bruno home to Burlingame, and thus could no longer serve on the board. Board members must reside within the boundaries of their school district.

Sarkon, a principal at Spring Valley School in Millbrae, had served as a trustee for six years.

According to Associate Supt. Ted Jackson, the trustees have decided to appoint a person to replace Sarkon, instead of calling for an election to fill the vacated post.

The trustees decided to make an appointment because, Jackson said, they did not want to wait for an election to have a full board.

Like a Broken Record

Le Pacini

We are about to perform a magic trick. We are about to make this sports column, written on paper with ink, sound like a broken record. Before we begin the performance, you must take our word for it that never did we intend to harp and pick on Giants customer services or Giant play-by-play broadcaster Art Eckman more than the one time we've done each this season. Frankly, we just didn't think that either could get worse, so there would have been no purpose served in repeating old material. But we were wrong.

On Aug. 6 we went to see the Giants play Cincinnati and waited in line for a ticket for exactly one hour, which meant that we missed almost three innings of the game. There were many people behind us, so we must assume that some of them missed as much as half the game. Luckily, Jim Barr got blasted, so that the early innings were prolonged, otherwise we obviously would have missed more of the game.

The crowd was large — almost 15,000 — but there was still no excuse for the way the ticket selling process was fumbled, especially since they knew it was Kids' Day and Senior Citizens' Day. What would have happened if they had drawn 30,000? Does that mean we would have waited in line for two hours and missed six innings? There was no way the front office could have been unprepared for the large turnout. They had drawn 13,500 on a cold Monday night game with the Reds just two nights before. Granted, John Montefusco was pitching and he is a bigger drawing card than Barr. But the next cold night they drew more than 8,000, also an above average crowd for a week night. Therefore, there should have been no reason not to anticipate a good crowd on a sunny day against baseball's best team. Oh, you should have heard the cries of "This is the last game I ever come to."

And a footnote for those of you who think we showed up late to the game. We arrived at the park 28 minutes before the first pitch was thrown.

AS FOR ECKMAN. At first we just laughed at the guy. We thought that maybe he was Lon Simmons trying to do a funny impersonation. Then when we discovered that there really was an Eckman and he was serious, we got angry with him for taking our money. That's right — Our money. He works for KSFO. They put a baseball game on the air that wouldn't be on the air unless it was sponsored. And it wouldn't be sponsored if we didn't buy those sponsors' products. The point is we pity Eckman because he's so bad and because he isn't smart enough to keep his mouth shut when he doesn't know something.

Since our last tirade, he's continued pulling his standard stuff. One night he had Angel Mangual hitting a home run for Texas. He might argue that that's what the wire said, but dammit, even though Oakland's in the other league he should know who's on the roster across the bay, and correct the wire. There might be an excuse if Mangual were a new man, because since expansion it has been hard to keep up on roster changes, but Mangual has been in Oakland since 1971. And then in another game Dave Rader got up, and this is what Eckman said: "Rader hits a line drive to right field, and Griffey runs over to take it." So you assume that Griffey caught it, right? Not so. We didn't realize until the next batter was up and the Cincy pitcher was going into a stretch, that Rader was on base, because Ken Griffey had taken the ball on a bounce.

But as we said, that's all standard stuff. What he did that same week was unbelievable, and is what inspired writing about him again. The Giants had a man on first, no outs, and Gary Matthews was up. He hit a high hopper to the third baseman, who, according to Eckman, had no play at first because of the slowness of the ball and the speed of Matthews. So the third baseman made his only play, which was an attempt to force the runner at second, which he did on a close play. So how did the expert Eckman handle that? "Well," he said, in his authoritative, stentorian voice, "how that's going to have to be scored, they're going to have to give Matthews a hit, because he would have beaten it out if they had gone to first with it."

And then, when the official scorer called it a simple force out, Eckman acted surprised, as if, perhaps, the scorer had made a mistake, the same way he blames the umpire or the scoreboard keeper when he loses track of the count.

WE RARELY PLAY trade games in this column, because there are so many hidden variables in trades that it's impossible for an outsider to know what is possible. But just for fun, we think it would be possible for the Giants to get that power hitting third baseman for which they've been searching by offering the Red Sox Randy Moffitt for Rico Petrocelli.

Here's how we figure it all. They blew the Dave Kingman for Bill Melton trade with the White Sox. Besides, Melton has a bad back and it seems to be reflecting in this season's statistics. There's no way the Giants are going to get players like Sal Bando, Graig Nettles, Darrell Evans (well, maybe him), Bill Madlock, Ron Cey, Mike Schmidt, Don Money, Buddy Bell (well, maybe, if he keeps going bad), Ken Brett, etc., etc., for many reasons, like, the clubs wouldn't give them up, or they'd want John Montefusco, or the Giants have nothing they want, or they wouldn't trade with someone in their own league or territory who is in competition with them, and like that.

But . . . the Red Sox, so it is said, have been on the brink of trading Petrocelli for the past two or three years, and they can always use pitching. The Giants wouldn't part with Barr or Montefusco, or even Falcone or Lavelle, especially since the latter two are rare lefties. Neither would they part with tremendous raw talents of Halicki or D'Aquisto. (In D'Aquisto's case, the Red Sox probably wouldn't want to gamble on a bad arm, anyway.)

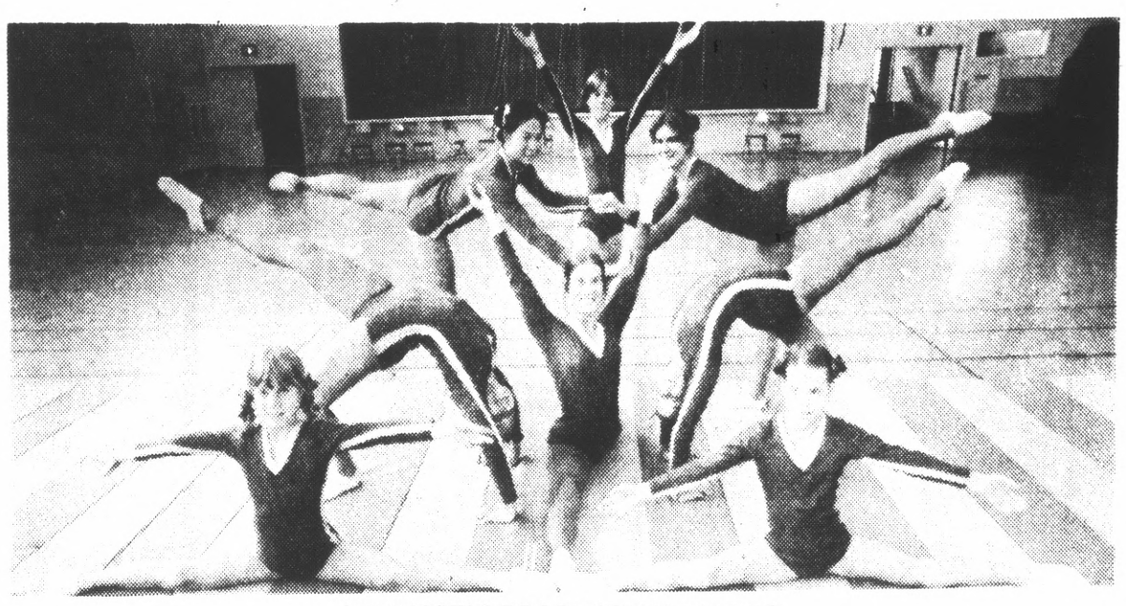
Nor could the Giants get anything of worth from the mysteriously collapsed Mike Caldwell. So who is left but Moffitt, a young but experienced pitcher who has had a sub-par year, but who appears to be sound and who still has potential. And to take his place as the right-handed short reliefer, the Giants have rookie Dave Heaverlo, who is at least promising (no, the Red Sox wouldn't take an un-seasoned campaigner like him, not when they know they figure to be in pennant races at least for another year or two).

What the Red Sox would be giving up is a veteran who has possibly seen his best days, and whose slugging services they no longer need.

The Giants, on the other hand, would be getting an established player who, at 32, is by no means ancient and who is much better than anything they now have. Petrocelli is an at least adequate fielder who, playing with some rest, would figure to hit about .260, about 15 homers and drive in 70, maybe 75 runs in an average season for the Giants. Besides that, he would be somebody for Amalfitano, Montefusco, Falcone and D'Aquisto to talk to.

And by the way, if they could get a good third baseman for Willie Montenez, they should grab him. Montenez, we feel, is a vastly overrated fielder and we don't think he hustles as much as it's been publicized. Give Gary Thomasson a chance there. He's hungry.

MISCELLANY: We noticed in that last Cincy series that the Giants did something well that they hadn't been doing well all year — picking away for one run an inning at a time. The only problem was that the Reds picked away, too — two runs at a time . . . Another thing that showed up in that series is that the Giants seldom play well in front of big home crowds. Same as on television. Especially national television . . . You ready for a look-alike? How's Leonard Woodcock and John Wooden?



GYMNASTIC PRODUCTION SLATED

The Daly City Recreation Department will present its Annual Summer Gymnastic Production on Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Westlake Community Center Gymnasium, 145 Lake Merced Blvd. The evening of gymnastic entertainment will feature the Crickets Gymnastic Team, and students of beginner through intermediate skills.

Instructed by Miss Rachelle Vinson and Miss Donna Antraccoli, students will perform routines including the balance beam, uneven bars, vaulting horse, floor exercise and modern rhythmics.

Sports And Recreation

Telstars Squeeze 1-0 Softball Championship

The M. P. Brown - Telstar team squeezed out a narrow 1-0 championship game victory over favored Skyline in the Daly City Recreation Jr. Teen Club Co-Rec Softball Tourney Aug. 2 at Westlake Park.

Teams from Skyline, Serramonte, Bayshore (Imperials), Westmoor Park (Telstars), and M.P. Brown (Telstars) vied for top honors in the day-long tournament, which included softball, tugs o' war, watermelon stuffing, and water balloon tossing.

The M.P. Brown Cardinals trimmed the Serramonte Sluggers 8-5 and trounced Westmoor 10-5 to gain the finals, while Skyline edged Bayshore 2-1 and blitzed Serramonte, 5-0. Both clubs met with perfect 2-0 records in the afternoon championship game.

After 6½ innings of scareless action, M.P. Brown stormed through with the winning run with three solid hits in the last frame.

The champs were coached by Teen Advisor Lin Winetrub.

Runnerup Skyline was coached by Ed Barney, while Tom Nuris guided Serramonte Sluggers to a third place finish.

Fourth place went to Bayshore and Westmoor led by Jacinto Fonseca and Mike Simmons.

Canine, Melody Top DC League

In the Adult Softball League, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division, the Bayshore Baptists edged Canco, 6-5, in a game featuring a Mike Knowles homer in the bottom of the seventh with two outs to win the game.

Melody Toyota downed the B of A Rookies, 7-6, with Rich Virgil contributing four hits, and Jim Gigliotti collecting three hits for the winners.

In other action, Canine Protection Service defeated Broadmoor Service, 3-2. Verbal Abuse was too much for the French A.C. and claimed an 8-7 win, and the National Distillers downed Canco, 11-6.

Free Children's Bowling Planned at Swenson's

Daly City Recreation Department, in cooperation with Swenson's Westlake Bowl, is offering one week of free bowling for Daly City children, 8-12 years.

The program will be divided into two sessions which will run the week of Aug. 25-29.

Session one will run from 10-11:30 a.m. and session two will run from 1-2:30 p.m.

Each session will be limited to 100 children and transportation will not be provided.

Therefore, registration preference will be given to children with parental transportation to and from the bowl.

Children are expected to attend all lessons in their session and may participate in only one of the two sessions.

The purpose of the program is to teach children to bowl properly and interest them in this activity in which they can participate throughout their entire lives.

An important plus in this program is that an instructor will be provided for every eight children.

Only the first 100 children in each program will be able to participate but others may be placed on a waiting list and contacted if openings arise.

Registration forms are available from local playgrounds and the deadline for turning them in is Friday.

For further information, contact the Daly City Recreation Department at 134 Hillside Blvd. or call 992-5356.

Area Dystrophy Fund-raiser Set

The national fund raising campaign to combat Muscular Dystrophy will be aided over the Labor Day weekend through the efforts of Local 2400 of the Fire Fighters Union, Broadcast employees, and hundreds of entertainers.

Throughout the entire weekend a northern Peninsula telethon will be staged on the mall at the Tanforan Shopping Center in San Bruno. The entire three day affair will be televised and aired over numerous cable TV stations in the Peninsula area.

Already committed to air the show are San Bruno's Channel 3, and Belmont-Redwood City-San Carlos Channel 12. The show can be seen over each of these stations at 4:15 p.m. Saturday, August 30, and at 4:45 p.m. on both Sunday, August 31, and Monday, September 1.

Entertainers from Peninsula night clubs, schools, and organizations will appear, including the Buckingham Mountain School Bluegrass group, the Chapparrals western music group, the Pat Bartholomew dancers, the Family Affair musical group who just appeared at the San Mateo County Fair, and Cisco and Boston Mason appearing at the Distillery and Eggplant in San Bruno and Burlingame.

Peninsula residents are urged to visit the live performances at the Tanforan Shopping Center, donate to the Muscular Dystrophy Fund, then return home and watch for themselves on television over their local cable channel.

All personnel involved are donating their time, and all facilities are being donated, so that all money collected goes directly to the Muscular Dystrophy fund with no expenses being deducted.

The Tanforan Center is open on Saturday, August 30, from 9:30 to 5:30, and on Sunday and Monday, August 31 and September 1, from noon to 5:30, and is located on El Camino Real in San Bruno at the corner of Sneath Lane.

In addition to the live talent performing on the stage, the fire fighters will have displayed many items of fire fighting equipment, including fire engines, an old fashioned horse drawn hose cart, and many items of support equipment.

Indian Art Show Set at Cow Palace

The Cow Palace will become the world's largest Kiva (Indian ceremonial house) when the Indian Arts and Crafts Show fills the arena with $5 million worth of jewelry and other Indian crafts Friday through Sunday.

"The popularity explosion in turquois and other Indian artifacts has been unbelievable. We need big halls to accommodate the crowds and the large number of exhibit booths," said James Psarros of the promotion team which has traveled the show from their Phoenix base to Tucson, San Antonio, Anaheim, Fresno and now to San Francisco.

The show, with 148 individual "trading posts," includes collections of priceless artifacts, demonstrations of silversmithing, Navajo rug weaving and Indian sandpainting, and sales booths offering everything from inexpensive $6 rings to items valued at thousands of dollars.

Zuni, Hopi, Jemez, Navajo, Pima and Pueblo arts and crafts dominate the show, reflecting both the background and the popular demand which has made turquoise and Indian silver the hottest jewelry product on the market.

Exhibitors from ten Western states will be included, and 148 booths in competition with each other means real bargains for the public, Psarros added.

"We have structured the show to be of equal interest to the knowledgeable collector of the most valuable pieces and to the general public who are looking for an attractive piece of everyday jewelry," he said.

One of the most interesting — and visable — exhibitors will be Jesse Locco from New Mexico via Hollywood. Television buffs will recognize Locco from his many appearances on "Bonanza," "High Chapparal," "Gunsmoke" and other westerns. He mans his booth garbed in more than $20,000 worth of Indian jewelry.

The Indian Arts and Crafts Show opens at 2 p.m. on Friday and at 11 a.m. Saturday and Sunday. General admission is $2.50. Children 13 and under will be admitted free with parents.

Westmoor Schedules In Mail to Students

Westmoor class schedules for the 1975-76 school year will be mailed to the students' homes during the week of Aug. 18, according to Pablo Perez, assistant principal-guidance for Westmoor High School.

Students who need to change their programs because they desire to enroll in the Work Experience Education Program, because of classes taken in summer school, because of program errors, or with any questions regarding their class schedule, should telephone Westmoor High School, 756-3434, to make an appointment with their respective counselor.

The counselors will be available on Aug. 29, but students must have an appointment.

Students new to Westmoor should telephone the school for an appointment to enroll on this date.

Carnivals Set For Pacifica

The Pacifica Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department will kick off "Penny Power" week, with Penny Carnivals.

The carnivals will be held at Linda Mar, Cabrillo and Westview Community Centers from 6-9 p.m., today while Ortega Community Center will have their carnival from 4-7 p.m.

Fairmont, Pacific Manor, Vallemar and Crespi will have their Penny Carnivals from 6-9 p.m. Thursday.

Wells in 'Superstar'

Ronald Wells, drama specialist for the Daly City Recreation Department, is currently appearing as the lead in "Jesus Christ Superstar" produced by the Summer Repertory Theater, Santa Rosa Junior College.

Locally well known for his directing and musical arranging abilities, Ron takes the spotlight with a pleasing flair and individual interpretation that leave no question as of his versatility and the excellence of his talents.

Under the direction of Rodger Henderson, Ron is featured in such numbers as "Strange Things Mystifying," "Hosanna," and "The Last Supper." If audience reaction is an indication, Ron's solo "I Only Want To Say" is the highlight of the evening.

Ron will be returning to Daly City in September to resume his responsibilities as drama specialist for the Daly City Recreation Department, and to continue his education at San Francisco State College.

His directing career includes "Oliver!," "Peter Pan," "The Fantasticks," "Once Upon A Mattress," and "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

MD Camp Scheduled

A dozen Peninsula children are among those attending the first of three one-week sessions of the Muscular Dystrophy camp at La Honda which began Monday.

$155,620,457 County Budget Set

San Mateo County's 1975-76 budget totaling $155,620,457 was adopted last week by the Board of Supervisors.

Although the budget is more than $12 million higher than last year, a tax rate decrease of at least 21 cents per $100 of assessed valuation is expected when the board sets the rate next Tuesday. The 1974-75 tax rate was $1.9175.

Supervisor William H. Royer predicted the "at least" figure of 21 cents. He noted also that for those property owners paying the library tax there will be a reduction of 2 cents, and for those paying the county fire protection tax there will be a reduction of 14 cents.

The final figure of the 1975-76 budget is nearly $4 million below the amount recommended by County Mgr. M. D. Tarshes. The austerity-minded Board of Supervisors held numerous and lengthy public hearings before reaching the budget adopted Tuesday.

At its final budget hearing, the board adopted a report recommending establishment of a county cost reduction program and creation of a citizens advisory committee on county government organization.

At its meeting Tuesday, the board authorized Tarshes to begin recruitment for the necessary staff to carry out the cost reduction studies, and set Aug. 12 as the deadline for receiving applications from individuals who wish to serve on the 15-member advisory committee.

General objectives of the cost reduction program are to eliminate duplication of services provide present services at lower cost, reduce waiting time for persons served by the county, distribute the workload evenly among employes, improve the effectivess of the delivery of services, and achieve savings of at least $5 for each $1 spent in the program.

The citizen committee members will serve for a one-year term, subject to reappointment following an evaluation of results during the initial year of the project.

Livestock Auction Success

This year's annual Junior Livestock Auction sponsored by the 4-H and FFA at the San Mateo County Fair & Floral Fiesta was the most successful ever according to Fair officials.

Robert L. Hopper, Pacifica, Chairman of the Fair's Livestock Committee reports a record $115,662.05 was paid compared to last year's total of $96,035.84. In all, 82 steers were sold for $77,841.95, an average of 92 cents a pound and the 220 lambs brought $37,820.10, an average of $1.73 a pound.

R. M. Dethlefsen with the Bank of America Appraisal Department, which handles all financial arrangements for the auction, notes, "Ten years ago the total sale was only $29,914.93. This increase shows how much the community interest and participation of the young people has increased."

Pete's Harbor Restaurant in Redwood City had the distinction of being the high bidder on both the Grand Champion Steer and Grand Champion Lamb. Peter Uccelli bid $2.50 a pound for the champion steer raised by Lori Tennant of San Carlos and his partner Mario Biagi was high bidder at $8.00 a pound for the champion lamb belonging to Ernie Whitehouse of Redwood City. The total price paid for the champion steer was $2,935 and the champion lamb totaled $840.

Uccelli says he participates in the Auction each year because, "These kids work hard to raise their animals and we like to support them in their efforts."

Biagi commented, "I feel an obligation to help these young people realize a sense of accomplishment in their projects."

The Reserved Grand Champion Steer raised by Sandra Weddell of Woodside was purchased by Ginger and Jess Ehmke of the Coiffure Palace in Palo Alto for $2.00 a pound. The Reserved Grand Champion Lamb was bought by the San Mateo Elks Club for $5 a pound. It was raised by Nick Prokopakis of South San Francisco.

Deaths

ELI FIORENTINI

Eli Fiorentini, 56, a lifetime resident of South San Francisco, died Saturday at Lake Tahoe.

He was a retired employe of Edwards Wire and Home Co. in South San Francisco and a World War II Army veteran.

Survivors include his widow, Mary, of South San Francisco; a son, Gary Fiorentini of South San Francisco; three daughters, Jill Fiorentini, Lynne Kiick, and Janis Berni, all of South San Francisco; one sister, Mrs. Claire Romelli of Los Altos; and his mother, Mrs. Ida Fiorentini of South San Francisco.

A Rosary will be recited 8 p.m. today and funeral services will be held 9 a.m. Wednesday, both from the Chapel of Nauman and Lincoln Mortuary in South San Francisco. Mass of Christian Burial will be offered 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at All Soul's Catholic Church. Entombment will be at Holy Cross Cemetery.

ANGELO MALASPINA

He was a retired machinist and a member of Electronics Local 1327.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Regina Malaspina of San Bruno; two sons, Bill Malaspina of Montara and Fred Malaspina of Campbell; a daughter, Kay Conkling of Pacifica; two brothers, Frank Malaspina of San Bruno; and Tino Malaspina of Beaumont, Tex., and seven grandchildren.

A rosary will be recited 8 p.m. today and funeral services will be held 9 a.m. Wednesday at San Bruno Funeral Home. Mass of Christian Burial will be held 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at St. Bruno's Catholic Church.

Interment will be at Holy Cross Cemetery.

Governale Mulls Supervisor Race

San Bruno Councilman Tony Governale is considering running for a seat on the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

Governale told The Times Monday night that in November he will formally declare his candidacy for the Board of Supervisors's seat currently held by James Fitzgerald of San Bruno.

Fitzgerald's term expires in June, 1976.

"I think there has been a tremendous separation between county and city roles," Governale said. "Both the cities and the county should be working together in many areas."

A San Bruno councilman for the past five years, Governale believes that too much of the county Board of Supervisor's attention is being addressed to Mid- and South-County issues.

"It seems that the Board of Supervisors direct much of their attention to the South- and not the North-County," Governale said. "To get something up here, it takes an arm and a leg.

"We haven't got a superior court judge, we have inadequate open space, and it took us years to get a (per arraignment) holding facility up here," he said.

Governale said that before he makes a formal declaration of candidacy he must calculate the amount of money and support needed to wage a successful campaign. He said he also has to consider personal obligations.

Three years ago Governale unsuccessfully challenged Louis Papan for a seat in the state assembly.

Governale is a 45-year old salesman, who has resided 18 years in San Bruno.

Aide Replies To Criticism

Mrs. Mildred Swann, vice chairman of the county's Human Relations Commission, has returned a verbal volley at ex-commission chairman Thomas C. Taylor, who last week quit the commission — categorizing it as "a giant ripoff."

The recently reorganized commission is scheduled to elect a new chairman when it meets a week from Thursday.

Taylor's "ability and sincerity to provide the kind of leadership to the commission that we are entitled to receive," was questioned by Mrs. Swann in a letter to James V. Fitzgerald, chairman of the county Board of Supervisors. She accused Taylor, a state senior deputy labor commissioner and a member of the Burlingame Planning Commission, of "consistent attempts not only to divide the commission members against each other but also to create a more serious division between the commission and staff as well as among the staff.

"His motives for such divisive tactics remain unclear," Mrs. Swann asserted. "Subcommittee chairmen received little or no direction from Mr. Taylor during his partial term of office, and a meeting requested by Supervisor John M. Ward six months ago to establish future commission goals and objectives was never called."

As far as Taylor's accusation that the commission is "a giant ripoff," Mrs. Swann continued that "even during the four years he was a member of the commission, none of his (Taylor's) published concerns for the commission were presented by him to the full commission and his distrust of some commissioners and staff has not been supported by any conceivable evidence."

She declared that, "a majority of commission members recently expressed their continued discomfort with Mr. Taylor's leadership. He was also requested to relinquish the chairmanship in the best interest of the commission. His response was resignation from the full commission and published public accusations.

"The San Mateo County Human Relations Commission reaffirms its pledge to eliminate prejudice and unlawful discrimination because of race, religion, color, place of birth, sex or age," Mrs. Swann concluded. "This struggle will continue in spite of efforts to limit our effectiveness or distract us from our goals."

BEST LEGS AT THE FAIR

Ellen Zollinger, a 25-year-old Redwood City secretary, won the Miss Legs title at the San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta Thursday night. Her leg measurements came closest to the National Hosiery Institute ideal. Second place finisher was Katy Kelley, 19, of Foster City. Some of the male crew which helped with contest are pictured doing their jobs. Left to right, John E. Bonner, a county weights and measures inspector, presenting the best-of-show blue ribbon; John Steen, county Convention and Visitors Bureau director, presenting the trophy; and Hiro Higashi, director of the Fair Association Professional Floral Culture Dept., doing the measuring.

Suspect Arrested In Rape

A San Mateo rape suspect was arrested last week a few hours after the crime because, police said, a wallet identified as his was found at the scene.

Charged with rape was Harry Lee Fister, 23.

Detective John Stangl, said that the alleged rape occurred at about 1 a.m. in Shoreview.

The victim was described as a widow. Small children in the home slept through the episode.

According to Stangl, the victim had walked her dog and was getting ready to retire after midnight.

She was in her night clothes, Stangl said, when she went into the living room to be confronted by the intruder, who, the detective said, had broken into the home.

The victim reported that her assailant threatened to kill her, police said, and then attacked her.

Workshop Set For Bay-Ocean District Clubs

Presidents and award chairmen of member clubs of the Bay Ocean District California Garden Clubs, have been invited to an awards workshop on Monday at 9:30 a.m. at the Hillsborough home of Mrs. George Panaretos.

Discussion will focus on district, state and national awards and how to earn them.

Four district women won awards Wednesday in the hat show portion of the Garden Club Day luncheon at the Fiesta. They were Mrs. Robert Cuff and Betty Smith of the Belmont Garden Club and Mrs. George Jensen and Mrs. Elmer Smith of the Florettes.
